SOUTHERN SECTIONS.

By RICHARD WRIGHT.
The bold, brazen flag of Secession may wave its folds o'er oligarchy, pirate and slave; And the South may exult in its utmost heart's core,
But, alas! its once high vaunted Chivalry's o'er.
Southern Chivalry, Truth! prized as dear "household words."
When Sumpter and Marion drew forth their swords,
And, in name of their one common Country, upheld Righteous Liberty's cause, in swamp, forest and field.

Where that Chivalry now? Does it glow in one soul
Of the false ones, Marat's of usurping control?
Is it seen, as wide spread, "a la P. & C." Ter-ror's reign,
With extortion, impressment, and blood in its train?
And the famed "Old Dominion" how lowered its pride,
Since inspired Patrick Henry harranged at her side, Now consenting to act a subordinate part—and become a mere ground and shield for each less worthy laud.

Where the flag, that at Yorktown in triumph streamed high,
As American bugles blew Victory's cry?
Where the flag, that in '12, from the masthead waved o'er Each Southern who share in our naval fights boast?

Oh, shame! that such flag should so instant give place,
To a symbol of Treason, dishonor, disgrace;
That the radiant Stars of Columbia should yield to twinkling stars, on a Palmetto field.

Oh, would that the men, struck with blindness, could see
The weak they are making of all Liberty; Would that they could know not a tyrant can be gained
By Secession, of blessings in Union contained.

Southern States have had every right with the North,
Religious and civil, assured and confessed;
And wouldst thou rolled upon them by commerce and trade,
Till themselves, from well-doing, their bankruptcy made.

Will the time ever arrive? let us hope that it may,
When the South shall wake up from the "Jeff.
Davis" sway;
Shall "acknowledge the corn" of repudiate-debt,
And on recalcitrant a fair, honest face set.

To return, if they choose, clear and open the way—
Restoring what foully they've seized on as prey;
And, ceasing obstructions to laws of the land, Again in full Brotherhood's lodge they can stand.

And the Eagle, as poised in Empyrean blue, Taking in, at one rapid, vast circling view, North and South, East and West to its utmost extreme,
See Atlantic ocean's sun—its Pacific eye's beam.

But 'till that day shall come, be it known to the world,
"Hail Columbia" shall sound, while her flag is unfurled;
And the Stars and the Stripes of our Union shall wave,
'Till the last heart of Freedom lies cold in the grave.

Washington City, D. C., June 30, 1861.

A SLAVE AUCTION DESCRIBED BY MR. RUSSELL.

It appears from Mr. Russell's latest received letters, that while he was sojourning at the capital of the Southern Confederacy, he thought it would be instructive to attend for the first time a slave auction. What he saw and felt is thus vividly described:

"The crowd was small. Three or four idle men, in rough, homespun, knee-bitted uniforms, leaned against the iron rails enclosing a small pond of foul green-looking water, surrounded by a brick wall, which decorated the space in front of the Exchange Hotel. The speaker stood on an empty deal packing case. A man in a cart was lathering with a luscious eye to the address. Some three or four others, in a sort of vehicle, which might either be a hearse or piano, had also drawn up for the benefit of the address. Five or six men in long black coats, and high hats, some whistling sticks, and chewing tobacco, and discharging streams of discolored saliva, composed the group.
'Nigger-ban-der and fifty dollars. Only nine hundred offered for him,' exclaimed the man in the tone of injured dignity, remonstrance, and surprise, which can be imitated by all true auctioneers into the dullest numerical statements. 'Will no one make any advance on nine hundred and fifty dollars?' A man near me opened his mouth, spat, and said, 'Twenty-five.' 'Only nine hundred and seventy-five dollars for him. Why, that rascalous; only nine hundred and seventy-five dollars. Will no one bid?'

"Beside the orator auctioneer stood a stout young man of five and twenty years of age, with a badge in his hand. He was a muscular, fellow, broad shouldered, narrow flanked, but rather small in stature; he had on a broad, grey, old wide awake, a blue jacket, a coarse cotton shirt, loose, and rather ragged trousers, and broken shoes. The expression of his face was heavy and sad, but it was by no means disagreeable, in spite of his thick lips, broad nostrils and high cheek bones. On his head was wool instead of hair; his whiskers were little tufts of black tufts, and his skin was as dark as that of the late Mr. Dyce Sombre or of St. Jung Bahadur himself. I am neither sentimentalist nor Black Republican, nor negro worshiper, but I confess the sight caused a strange thrill through my heart. I tried in vain to make myself familiar with the fact that I could, for the sum of $275, become as absolutely the owner of that mass of blood, bones, sinews, flesh, and brains, as of the horse that stood by my side. I have seen slave markets to the East, but somehow or other, the Orientalism of the scene cast a coloring over the nature of the sales there, which deprived them of the disagreeable harshness and matter-of-fact character of the transaction before me. For the Turk or Smyrniote, or Egyptian, to buy and sell slaves, seemed rather suited to the eternal fitness of things than otherwise. The turbaned, shawled, loose-tressed, pipe-smoking merchants, speaking an unknown tongue, looked as if they were engaged in a legitimate business. One knew that their slaves would not be condemned to any very hard labor, and that they would be in some sort the inmates of the family and members of it. Here it grated on my ears to listen to the familiar tones of the English tongue as the medium by which the transfer was effected, and it was painful to see decent looking men in European garb engaged in the work before me. The negro was sold to one of the bystanders, and walked off, with his bundle, God knows where. 'Niggers is cheap,' was the only remark of the bystanders. Another auctioneer, a fat, flabby, perspiring, puffy man was trying to sell a negro girl, who stood on the deal box beside him. She was dressed pretty much like a London servant girl of the lower order, out of place, except that her shoes were shreds of leather patches, and her bonnet would scarcely have passed muster in the new cut. She, too, had a little bundle in her hand, and looked out at the buyers from a pair of large and eyes. 'Niggers were cheap,' still here was this young woman going for an upset price of $610, but no one would bid, and the auctioneer, after vain attempts to raise the price, and excite competition, said, 'Not sold to-day, Sally; you may get down.' She stepped down from the box, and walked off down the main street, without further notice, while the auctioneer sauntered away in another direction."

FOREIGN ITEMS.
The new Sultan has only one wife.

A plot to assassinate Garibaldi has been discovered.
Mario is engaged at the Theatre Italien, Paris, for next season.

John Anderson, the fugitive slave, is living "in clover" in England.

The health of the Empress of Austria is very precarious. She has an abscess in the lungs.

The funeral of Lord Campbell took place on the 29th ultimo. His remains repose in Jed burgh Abbey.

One of the sisters of Francis II is about to be betrothed to a brother of the Emperor of Austria.

It is said that Liszt is to be appointed superintendent of chamber music to Louis Napoleon.

The Prince of Wales has gone to Curragh, Ireland, to study the details of military science.

Mr. Blondin proposes to cross the Seine upon a rope stretched between the Tuileries and the Quai d'Orsay.

M. S. Leigh Stobey, the celebrated London auctioneer, died suddenly a few days before the last steamer left.

The celebrated ex-dancer, Mrs. Lyne Stevens, once Duvarney, is about to be married to the Duke de Richelieu.

Mlle. Adeline Patti sang at a sacred concert, given by command of the Queen, at Buckingham Palace, on the 28th ult.

The Bishop of Exeter has announced his intention of giving £10,000 toward the foundation of a theological college in the west of England.

Madeline Smith, who was tried at Glasgow a few years ago for the murder of her lover, but released because the charge was not proved, is about to be married at Plymouth.

Armstrong guns are now made which carry a projectile of one hundred and twenty-five pounds weight. Even a ten-inch plate is not proof against the power of this ball.

The special services at Westminster Abbey have been closed for the present. They have been very successful in bringing together large congregations of the working classes.

The comet was first seen by English astronomers on Sunday, June 30th. One says that it was visible after sunset; another, at 2.40 A. M.; and another, at half-past ten, P. M.

It is believed that the Great Eastern is to receive £27,000 from the British Government for conveying troops to Quebec. If she does not get a remunerative cargo at Quebec, she will visit New York again.

A Russian gentleman died recently while in a railway carriage near Bourges. He measured more than seven feet around the waist, and his weight was so enormous that it required six men to remove the body from the carriage.

The Pre Catalan, in the Bois de Boulogne, which was closed last year, has just been opened as a model dairy, and it is now the rage to go there to drink a cup of milk warm from the cow, administered by Hebes, dressed in Swiss costume.

It is said that a relationship existed between the late Sultan and the Emperor Napoleon III.
The grandmother of the former was Mme.
Amice Dubuc de Rivery, a relative of Josephine de la Pagerie, maternal ancestor of the Emperor of the French.

The programme for the Imperial family of France for the summer is thus announced: First, the Empress goes to England; then the Emperor at Cherbourg; then they proceed together to Biarritz, and the Empress alone will pay a visit to the Queen of Spain, the Emperor subsequently also visiting Spain. Her Majesty will then return to her place of Ar-rango, where great preparations have been made.

Queen Victoria, at the levee on the 27th ult., wore a paranna train trimmed with erape.
The petticoat of the same material and trimmed to correspond. Her Majesty's head-dress was formed of black feathers and black erape veil.
The Crown Princess of Prussia wore a paranna train trimmed with erape. The petticoat of erape, and trimmed to correspond. Her Royal Highness's head-dress was composed of a diadem of jet, feathers, and erape lappets.
The ornaments were jet. The Princess Alice wore a train of erape over silk, trimmed with puillings of erape. The petticoat of black erape over silk. Her Royal Highness wore a headdress of a diadem of jet, feathers and lappets.
The Princess Mary, of Cambridge wore a train of black silk, trimmed with erape. The petticoat of black silk covered with erape. Ornaments of jet. Her Royal Highness wore a circlet of stars in jet, black feathers and a erape veil.

TORYDOM IN A STRAIT.—Mr. Crittenden having seen that the policy he has been pursuing, in regard to a compromise between the North and the South, was only producing dissension results, has abandoned the project. Mr. Sauls-bury, seeing the failure of Mr. Crittenden, and fearing the bigger would die quietly in the Senate, has produced this second-handed failure, with no other object in view than to keep up the agitation. Mr. Saulsbury may preach his compromise down in Indian River, or some other great metropolis, but the day for humbugging the people has passed away. They see the rebellion as it is, and they intend putting it down. The Southern rebels must be subjugated, and if they cannot be held as States, they must be held as Territories.

They must be conquered; the leaders must be given up and hanged before the people will think of a compromise. In fact the time for compromise has passed; we must make the law breakers submit to the law of force.

The people of the North will dictate the terms upon which a permanent peace will be made. Such treacherous States as Virginia and Missouri must be taught that the Constitution and laws of the Union must be sustained. The North is able to take care of the Union itself, and from this time forward there will be no such thing as compromise with treason.

If Mr. Saulsbury desires to compromise with traitors, he had better leave Delaware. The people will never sustain him. The compromise that we want is, to hang the ringleaders in the rebellion, both in the Southern States and in the Northern ones. There are stories in Delaware who should be hung for the part they have taken in the treason. Bayard learned a lesson in Philadelphia, that should be a warning to such a fool as Saulsbury. The only difference is, the people of Delaware will do their own dirty work, and not trust their rascalies in the hands of strangers.—Wilmington (Del.)

ARMY SUPPLIES.
OFFICE OF ARMY CLOTHING AND EQUIPAGES, Corner of Howard and Mercer Streets,
New York, July 8, 1861.

SEALED PROPOSALS are invited and will be received at this office until 12 o'clock, M., on MONDAY, the 29th day of July instant, when they will be publicly opened for furnishing by contract the following tents for the use of the army, deliverable at such place or places in the city of New York as may be hereafter designated, in quantities as required.

Proposals should state the price of tents complete, delivered at any of the depots of the Quartermaster's Department, exclusive of tent poles and tent pins, which will be the subject of separate contracts.

Large supplies will be needed, and the purchases will be made from the lowest responsible bidders, at the time it becomes necessary to give the orders.

The prices per tent should be stated, naming the places at which the bidder offers to deliver.
The following specifications will be strictly adhered to:

HOSPITAL TENT.
14 feet long, 15 feet wide, 10 feet high, with a wall 4 feet, and having on top a large, so as to admit of two or more tents being joined and thrown into one, with a continuous covering or throw.

HOSPITAL TENT FLY.
22 feet 10 inches long, 14 feet wide.

WALL TENT.
9 feet long, 9 feet wide, 9 feet high, 4 feet wall.

WALL TENT FLY.
16 feet long, 9 feet wide.

SIBBLE TENT.
16 feet diameter, 13 feet high.

SERVANT'S TENT.
8 feet 10 inches long, 7 feet wide, 7 feet 1 inch high.

The tents and "flies" are to be made of cotton duck, of the following weight and dimensions, viz:
For Hospital Tent—
30 inches wide and 22½ ounces per yard.

For Hospital Tent Fly—
30 inches wide and 15½ ounces per yard.

For Wall and Sibble Tent—28½ inches wide and 15 ounces per yard.

For Servant's Tent and Wall Tent Fly—28½ inches wide and 10 ounces per yard.

All the above-mentioned articles must conform in every respect to the sealed standard patterns in this office, where they may be examined, and additional information received concerning them.

As it is desirable that the articles be of domestic fabrication, bids from manufacturers and regular dealers will be preferred, which must be made for and conform to such articles only, in quality and description, as are required by the advertisement and the samples in this office, but contracts will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder who shall furnish satisfactory securities for the faithful performance thereof.

The manufacturer's establishment or dealer's place of business must be distinctly stated in the proposal, together with the names, address, and responsibility of two persons proposed as sureties. The sureties will guarantee that a contract shall be entered into within ten days after the acceptance of said bid or proposal.

Proposals will be received for any one of the articles, separately, and for any portion of each, not less than one fourth of the number or quantity advertised for.

The privileges reserved by and for the United States of rejecting any proposals that may be deemed extravagant.

All articles will be subject to inspection by sworn inspectors, appointed by authority of the United States.

It is to be distinctly understood that contracts are not transferable without the consent of the proper authority, and that any sale, assignment, or transfer, without such consent having been obtained, except under a process of law, will be regarded as an abandonment of the contract; and the contractor and his, or their, securities will be held responsible for all loss or damage to the United States which may arise therefrom.

Payments will be made on each delivery, should Congress have made an appropriation to meet them, or as soon thereafter as an appropriation shall be made for that purpose. Ten per cent. of the amount of each delivery will be retained until the contract shall be completed, which will be forfeited to the United States in case of delinquency on the part of the contractor in fulfilling the contract.

Forms of proposals and guaranty will be furnished upon application to this office, and none will be considered that do not conform thereto.
Proposals will be endorsed, "Proposals for Furnishing Army Tents," and be addressed to:
Major D. H. VINTON, Quartermaster, U. S. Army, Box 3,295 Post Office.
